Acrobuffos'
AIR PLAY

Where Circus and Science Take Flight
March 30 - April 15

Written, Created and Performed by Seth Bloom and Christina Gelsone
Air Sculptures in collaboration with Daniel Wurtzel
Directed by West Hyler

New York, NY (February 28, 2018) -- Watch in absolute wonder as umbrellas take flight, balloons sprout minds of their own and shimmering silks ripple to the rafters in the modern spectacle AIR PLAY, playing at The New Victory Theater from March 30 - April 15, 2018. With knowing smiles and suitcases full of surprises, the globetrotting Acrobuffos (Big Apple Circus, Waterbombs!) elicit gasps and giggles in equal measure as they animate airflow, goad gravity, and make buoyant, beautiful and really, really, really high art out of the very thing we breathe.

Created, written and performed by husband and wife team Seth Bloom and Christina Gelsone, AIR PLAY features the Acrobuffos' signature mix of circus and street theater with the sculptural artistry of Daniel Wurtzel (Finding Neverland, Sleep No More, Radio City Rockettes' New York Spectacular, Cirque du Soleil's Amaluna), the world's only professional air sculptor whose "Magic Carpet" airflow piece went viral on YouTube with over two million views.

Using aerodynamic science, mathematics and a carefully positioned circle of fans, every performance of AIR PLAY is affected by the slightest changes in atmosphere--from humidity to the heat of the audience--a discovery made while in development with NEW VICTORY LabWorks, the theater's new work development program. Created to foster exciting and original works for family audiences here in the U.S., NEW VICTORY LabWorks invites its artists to share their work, while in development, with young audiences made up of New Victory Member families whose feedback proves invaluable.

AIR PLAY, with direction from West Hyler (Cirque du Soleil's Paramour, Big Apple Circus' Metamorphosis, Legendarium), lighting design by Jeanne Koenig (Associate Lighting Designer, The Lion King, Side Show) and sound design and props by Seth and Christina, took off around the world in 2015 and has been seen on five continents. Highlights include London's Royal Festival Hall, Shanghai's Grand Theater, and Melbourne's State Theater. Todd Alan Little (Production Manager), Flora Vassar (Stage Manager), Ashley Dunn Gatterdam (Costume Designer) and Phil Ingle (Additional Sound Designer) complete the creative and production team.

Seth and Christina met at a circus in Afghanistan, were engaged while street performing in Scotland and married in China. In 2005, they co-founded the Acrobuffos, an award-winning theater company specializing in non-verbal comedy performed in outdoor festivals, circuses, arenas and theaters. Since then, Seth and Christina have created five shows, competed at international circus festivals, performed together in 23 countries on 6 continents, juggled on Late Night with David Letterman, headlined at the Big Apple Circus and were featured in The New York Times. Their work for street, circus and stage includes The Acrobuffos: Madame & Monsieur and Waterbombs! When not on tour, Christina and Seth live in Harlem, New York City. ### More About the Acrobuffos

Seth spent his childhood in Kenya, India and Sri Lanka. His college years were interrupted multiple times with national tours as a professional juggler and silent comedian. He worked extensively in Afghanistan with the Mobile Mini Circus for Children, creating performances with visual theater to carry social messages in often-illiterate Afghan rural areas. Seth received his MFA in London for Lecoq theater technique, and co-founded Split Knuckle Theatre, a 5-star physical theater company. Seth is a graduate of Wesleyan University, Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey Clown College, Dell'Arte School of Physical Theatre and LISPA (MFA). He has performed in 28 countries and 48 U.S. States.

Christina grew up in Texas and has worked in 38 countries as a non-verbal clown, stilt walker, mask performer, juggler, puppeteer and acrobat. Originally a professional ballet dancer, she majored in Shakespeare at Princeton University and then studied corporeal mime at the Dell'Arte School of Physical Theatre. For many years, she worked with New York City-based Bond Street Theater in multiple post-war zones including a wordless Romeo and Juliet in Kosovo and Albania, and a non-verbal theatrical depiction of war and survival in Afghanistan. Other professional adventures include starting a social circus program in Egypt, creating curriculum-based comedy and teaching at universities.

More About New Victory LabWorks

Through New Victory LabWorks, the goals of the theater are to: expand the canon of high-quality family performing arts made in America; encourage NYC artists to make live art works that challenge notions of what theater for young audiences can be; and provide emerging artists with opportunities to hone their craft, expand their skills, meet contacts in the field, take artistic risks, and make bold choices with their work. Hosted in the New 42nd Street Studios, LabWorks equips artists with tangible resources, such as rehearsal space and basic technical assistance, as well as exposure to new creative processes and artistic principles through The New Victory's community of leaders in the field of performing arts for families. Perhaps most importantly, New Victory LabWorks Artists have opportunities to interact with their target audience: kids themselves.

New Victory LabWorks has helped develop over 34 projects on their journey to the stage, including currently running productions by The Civilians (The Abominables), Dead Puppet Society (Laser Beak Man), The Village (The Village of Vale), Blessed Unrest (The Snow Queen) and Acrobuffos, whose Air Play is the first of what the theater hopes will be many occurrences where a LabWorks project comes home to The New Victory.
